U.S. Proposal Would Freeze Atom Missiles

GENEVA (AP)—The United States unveiled today a proposal to freeze the number of nuclear missiles and bombers of the major powers without making these armaments subject to international inspection. The Soviet Union immediately assailed the idea.

U.S. disarmament delegate Adrian S. Fisher emphasized that no inventory or control of the total weapons held would be required. This plan was designed to meet Soviet objections that disarmament inspection would be used for espionage.

Fisher told the disarmament conference a rigorous control and inspection system would be set up, however, to prevent a buildup of stockpiles or improvement of weapons.

Semyon Tsarapkin, head of the Soviet delegation, immediately lashed out at the entire proposal, restating all previous Soviet objections.

He repeated the Soviet claim that the freeze verification procedure would submit all Soviet defense secrets to the scrutiny of Western spies.

"No country which does not harbor aggressive intentions against others would insist on such controls," Tsarapkin asserted.

Compact Price Too Is the Mustang

Styling and features of expensive European road cars are combined with an American mass-production price, compact economy, and traditional Ford quality in the Mustang—a new line of cars from Ford Division of Ford Motor Company.

Aimed at the fastest-growing dimension in American motoring—driving for pleasure—the Mustang offers the practicality of a back seat and adequate trunk space in a car comparable in size to the classic two-passenger Thunderbird.

Mustang hardtop and convertible models feature—as standard equipment—such sports and luxury features as bucket seats, molded nylon carpeting, floor-mounted shift for both manual and automatic transmissions, all-vinyl interior, padded instrument panel, and full wheel covers.

"In the Mustang, Ford actually has created three cars in one," according to Lee A. Iacocca, Ford Motor Company vice president and Ford Division general manager. "Starting with the economical, fun-to-drive basic Mustang, the buyer may select options to give him a sport car for street or competition use or a luxury car geared to either economy or performance."

Mustang options available to the performance-minded include a selection of three V-8 engines with up to 271 horsepower, 4-speed transmission, quick-ratio steering, Rally-Pac with tachometer and clock, limited-slip differential, and a special handling suspension and sports tires.

Luxury options include a center console, power brakes and steering, automatic transmission, power convertible top, rear-seat radio speaker, remote-control trunk release, vinyl-covered hardtop roof, and air conditioning.

"We believe the Mustang represents a new dimension in American motoring at a time when new and old generations of car-lovers alike have come full circle to an appreciation of the automobile for its own sake," says Mr. Iacocca. "It offers a combination of driving fun, roominess and style that permits the Mustang buyers to make of the car almost anything he desires—all at a low initial cost."

Hot Springs Chamber Plans to Sponsor Petitions to Legalize Gambling at Spa

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—The Hot Springs Chamber of Commerce will sponsor petitions for a constitutional amendment to legalize gambling here, it was announced Wednesday night.

R. H. Wootton, chamber president, said members voted by a ratio of six to one to back the petitions to put the amendment to a statewide vote in the November election.

The amendment would allow gambling in Hot Springs and Garland County only, he said.

The fabulous casinos here closed March 28 when Gov. Orval E. Faubus warned city officials that if they did not close the gambling operation, he would send State Troopers to do it.

There has been no casino action since.

William J. Hundley of the federal Justice Department said several months ago that the Hot Springs casinos were the "biggest illegal gambling operation in the country."

The cast includes Dan Jones, Ona Easterling, Gwen Easterling, Gwen Palmer, Curtis Cowart, Susie Waller, Linda Hulsey, Judy Hartsfield, Jack Coop.

George Wright, Mike Allen, Jane Gaither, Nancy Billings, Larry Moore, Carolyn Beck, Judy Owen, Sarah Bagley, Bobby Mitchell, Linda Arrington and Shirley Moody.

Stowaways Hobnob With Captain

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—for 3½ weeks Dutch artist Fritz Meyer and his wife hobnobbed with the captain of the Dutch liner Willem Ruys. Then the skipper found out they were stowaways.

"Just imagine," Capt. Herman Van Den Heuvel told reporters today. "These people introduced themselves to me at a cocktail party and I thought they were a fine couple. During the voyage I saw them at several parties. I even shared a bottle of wine with them."

The Meyers were hoping to return to Australia. They had come as immigrants in 1956 but had gone back to Holland two years later.

The shipping line wants full payment—$810—or else it will return them to Rotterdam.

"It looks as if they will stay on board until we get back to Holland in a month's time," said the captain.

Meyer is 47, his wife 39.

Thanks to Wigs, Creams and Pills Inroads of Time Are Camouflaged on People

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—How young are you?

Thanks to wigs, antiwrinkle creams, hormone pills and other devices, the inroads of time are so camouflaged that it is getting harder to tell anyone's real age.

It isn't altogether a matter of physical appearance either. The differing generations seem to have confused their normal aspirations and patterns of conduct.

Older people are trying to be young again, while lads just out of college are worrying about Social Security.

Here is a box score to test yourself. You're probably still on the sunny side of middle age if—

The mortgage on your home has 19½ years to run.

You still call your wife by the pet nickname of your courtship days instead of aping the children by addressing her as "Mother."

Being broke all the time now doesn't bother you so much because you feel supremely confident that in another five years at most you'll double or triple your income.

You like to open letters because you retain the hope that good news as well as bad news comes by mail.

Integrationist Jailed at Star City

STAR CITY, Ark. (AP)—The leader of a Negro voter registration drive was arrested here Wednesday and charged with making an improper left turn in his car, and with having an improper emergency brake.

Bruce Jordan, a field secretary for the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee, was jailed in lieu of payment of $33 in fines.

Jordan was arrested here last Friday and charged with having no light on the car license, and with having faulty parking lights. He paid $33 and was released.

To get the issue on the November ballot, petitioners will need the signatures of 35,000 qualified voters, representing at least five per cent of the qualified voters in 15 different counties.

Chamber officials would not say how many of the 750 members voted in the poll.

The announcement was the first solid indication that businessmen would approve of an attempt to legalize gambling, which has been billed as the No. 1 industry in Hot Springs and Garland County.

Hurst said the shutdown had hurt the city's economy.

"Several large conventions have canceled, and the biggest hotel in town had less than 30 per cent occupancy Tuesday night," he said.

Chamber officials declined comment.

Find Diamond at Murfreesboro

MURFREESBORO, Ark. (AP)—A. J. Guthrie of Texarkana found a 1.77 carat diamond at the new Diamond Gem Mine here, it was announced Wednesday.

The diamond was found Friday, but the find was not announced until the stone had been certified and weighed. Value of the gem has not been determined.

Body of Second Man Is Taken From Mine

BURKE, Idaho (AP)—Rescue workers today found the body of a second miner crushed to death in a cave-in at the Star mine here.

A mine supervisor said the 20-man rescue team found the body of Barney McCoy, 47, Wallace, Idaho. However, the threat of more falling rocks and sliding earth, coupled with cramped working conditions at the 6,900-foot level of the big zinc mine made recovery doubtful for some time.

Late Wednesday night, a team recovered the body of Reed Peck, 41, also of Wallace, who was working with McCoy in the cave-in. His body was recovered about five hours after the accident. He had been crushed to death by the debris which fell on him in a "rockburst" which sent rocks and timbers into the shaft.

The body of Peck was recovered Wednesday night about five hours after the accident. He had been crushed to death by the debris which came down on him.

A mine official said rescuers had no indication whether McCoy was alive.

Railway Talks Spurred as Deadline Nears

By NEIL GILBRIDE

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House said today that the tempo of bargaining in the railroad labor dispute "will be stepped up considerably" with day and night sessions from now on.

The statement from press secretary George Reedy followed word from President Johnson that he expects to know by next Monday whether the parties to the long work rules dispute will settle it for themselves.

Johnson's statement implied a shortened deadline for a voluntary agreement to head off a threatened nationwide strike.

Reedy said the day and night sessions will continue until federal mediators make the report Johnson requested.

Reedy said that after six days of exploratory talks, the bargaining sessions are moving into an entirely new stage—that of attempting to get both sides to modify their proposals.

"A major effort will be made to achieve modification of the proposals," Reedy said.

"We should know definitely not later than next Monday, whether the parties to this dispute will settle it by the process of bargaining and by responsible reason," Johnson said Wednesday.

"The country expects that answer to be yes," Johnson said after conferring privately with federal mediators and negotiators for five unions and nearly 200 railroads.

Johnson did not say what he might do if the talks fail, but he would have no power to halt a scheduled strike April 25 unless he asked Congress for special legislation.

The five-year dispute over wages, job classifications and working conditions had exhausted all provisions of federal law when Johnson won a 15-day strike postponement last Friday and set up the emergency bargaining talks.

"There is no settlement yet," Johnson said Wednesday on the sixth day of the talks, "and there can be no settlement until all issues are disposed of."

His reference to a definite decision by Monday was the first official indication that he will not let the entire 15-day postponement elapse without considering other steps.

"So far, there's been no threat of legislation," said George Reedy, White House press secretary.

"The principal question," Johnson said, "is whether these bargainers can, in 15 days, get over four years of the idea of somebody else settling their disagreements for them. I hope they can. I think they can."

He asked for another "definitive" report on the talks by this weekend.

The five train operating unions represent about 200,000 employees. They are protesting proposed railroad work-rules changes which they contend would amount to substantial pay cuts for many workers and eliminate many jobs.

Insurance Firm Has State Assets

Metropolitan Life Insurance Company assets invested in Arkansas amounted to $124.4 million at the end of 1963, it was announced today by Winifred Huckabee, local agent.

Metropolitan contributed significantly to demands for capital in Arkansas to finance industrial expansion and research; to help meet the needs of large and small businesses; and to spur the trend towards home ownership. For example, more than $67.3 million was invested in corporate securities in Arkansas. Metropolitan mortgage loans in the state amounted to $32 million, including $17.8 million in farm loans.

Total company assets—held for the protection of policyholders and in order to pay future benefits—reach a new high of $20.5 billion at year-end, an increase of 4.4 during the year. The net interest return on the Metropolitan portfolio was 4.45, the highest return achieved since 1932.

Expected No More Than They Got

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus said today that he expected to get no more than a promise from federal officials that the Ft. Chaffee closing would be reconsidered when he went to Washington Wednesday.

"We were quite pleased that they are going to take another look at this situation," Faubus said. "That's all we ever expected."

Defense Secretary Robert McNamara told Faubus and a delegation of 20 persons from Fort Smith that he had made mistakes in the past and it was possible that one had been made last December when the Defense Department listed Chaffee as a number of military installations to be deactivated in the economy move.

Faubus said Rep. James Trimble, D-Ark., was spokesman for the Arkansas group. "I just went along," Faubus said.

The Arkansas delegation met with McNamara for 75 minutes and talked later with Larry O'Brien, a presidential aide.

Faubus flew back to Little Rock Wednesday night in time to attend a dinner for officials of DowSmith Inc., which dedicated a new plant in Little Rock today.

Broyles' Son and Another Injured

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Henry David Broyles, 14, and Bobby Bell, 15, were injured early today when a car driven by young Broyles went out of control near here and struck a utility pole.

Broyles, the son of University of Arkansas head football coach Frank Broyles, was reported in "good condition" today. The Bell youth was listed as critical. He is the son of Harry L. Bell Jr., Fayetteville.

State Trooper Tommy Williams said the car went out of control north of Fayetteville where pavement ends and gravel begins. Both boys were thrown from the car, he said.

Foreign Agri Workers Fewer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Agriculture dependence on foreign workers declined in 1963 to the lowest level since 1951.

A Labor Department summary report on the 1963 foreign farm worker program showed admissions from other countries declined 4 per cent from 1962 to a total of 209,000, the smallest in 12 years.

This will be the last year of what is called the Mexican Baccero program, unless extended by Congress. Users of this type labor have indicated they will not seek an extension, but instead will attempt to recruit sufficient domestic workers to do the seasonal jobs heretofore done largely by workers imported from Mexico, the British West Indies, Canada and Japan. In 1963 imported workers included 16,900 Mexicans, 12,500 West Indians, 8,500 Canadians and 900 Japanese, the Labor Department said.

Brother of Late Diem to Trial

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—The younger brother of the late President Ngo Dinh Diem went on trial for his life in Saigon today and pleaded innocent to charges of murder, extortion and misuse of power.

Ngo Dinh Can, 53, former warlord of the central Vietnamese provinces, sat stolidly through the reading of a 17-page indictment in which he was charged specifically with the murder of three men.

Ill with diabetes, Can answered the questions quietly and unemotionally after the court rejected the plea from the defense counsel that he be excused from speaking.

Hundreds of people gathered outside the courthouse and cheered as his answers were relayed over loudspeakers.

The prosecution charges he used his power to arrest and order tortured to death people who refused to pay him illegal taxes or obey other demands, trumped up spy charges, the prosecution says.

Primary Edge Not Enough for Lodge

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)— Influential Republicans of all shades of opinion believe primary victories will not be enough and Henry Cabot Lodge must campaign personally if he wants to try to win the GOP presidential nomination.

A cross-section survey of party members who will have a voice in the choice of a nominee disclosed nearly unanimous opinion that the current boom for Lodge will flatten out if he remains as U.S. Ambassador to South Viet Nam until convention time.

Lodge has said he isn't a candidate for the nomination and can't participate in politics while he serves as ambassador. President Johnson said last week that Lodge is playing a "very constructive role" in Viet Nam and is under no pressure to resign.

Irving Salomon, a close adviser, reported after talking to the ambassador on a recent Far Eastern trip he can't say whether Lodge will resign by June, "but he cannot ethically be an ambassador and be involved in politics."

Lodge's current front-running status in national polls and his prospect of topping other candidates in the May 15 Oregon primary are attributed to various factors. One often mentioned is that of voter dissatisfaction with other presidential aspirants.

The surge for Lodge also is credited to his experience in the foreign affairs field, his remembered television image as a tough opponent of communism as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations and his lack of involvement in current GOP bickering over conservative and moderate views.

Listed Lodge liabilities include his tie to President Johnson's policies in Viet Nam, his defeats for the Senate in 1952 and for vice president in 1960 and what many thought was his lackadaisical campaigning in 1960.

Strategists for Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller regard it as inconceivable that Lodge could win the nomination from Saigon. They believe his popularity would nose dive if he came home and subjected himself to questioning on the issues of the day.

Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., named to head the platform committee for the July convention in San Francisco, said he thinks Lodge will have to come home by May 15 if he expects to be the nominee.

A former Republican national chairman, who didn't want to be quoted by name, summed up Lodge's appeal this way: "This is the guy who is least undesirable to the voters at this point. They are disenchanted with everybody else."

But he added: "Lodge is not another Eisenhower. He is going to have to come home and answer questions on where he stands if he expects to get the nomination. He's also going to have to show he can take the pace of vigorous presidential campaigning."

CAMPUS SEX RISING?
AND IF SO, WHY?

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

Dear Dr. Brothers: Books, newspapers, TV discussion shows, all of them keep pointing up the upswing in campus sex. Now I know that sex is not new to the campus or to Vas-sar or to Michigan or to any other gathering place of the young. It's not new — it just seems more so. Why? —B. B.

Dear B. B.: Basically, there is the natural rebellion of youth. This, as you point out, is nothing new. Each generation has gone through it. But when the pattern of steady dating in high school is added, the temptations are greater.

Parents should mourn the death of the stagline at high school and college dances. Youngsters go steady too soon and this is bound to lead to emotional and physical involvement.

Some girls sign out to spend the weekend with a family friend and wind up in a boy's apartment for Saturday and Sunday. Alcohol often plays a part. Young people get carried away under the influence of drink.

Then too, in many cases the youngsters are seeking affection. They are really emotionally involved.

Another reason why there seems to be an upswing in campus sex is due to the fact that many of the young people who are attending college today, in the past would have been holding down a job and married.

Thirty years ago the type of woman who went to college was quite different. She was a trail blazer, fighting for a higher education, eager to prove her academic worth.

Today many more women go on to higher learning. They come for three reasons: the old wish for a higher education, for the business meeting. During the refreshment hour 12 members were served strawberry sundaes, cake and coffee.

Chapter AE, NEO Meets

Mrs. Roy Bagley and Mrs. Lynn Harris were co-hostesses for a meeting of Chapter AE, P.E.O., Tuesday, April 14 in the home of Mrs. Bagley. Lovely spring blossoms graced the home.

The president, Mrs. Bagley, and all the new officers had the exemplification of the ritual. During the business session, plans were made for the state convention in Jonesboro. Mrs. F. C. Crow and Mrs. E. P. O'Neal will be delegates.

Refreshments were served from an attractively decorated tea table. Sandwiches, cake, nuts and coffee were enjoyed by 10.

Coming and Going

Mrs. C. V. Nunn, Mrs. F. C. Crow, and Mrs. Albert Graves attended a district meeting of the WSCS in Foreman Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Branch and two daughters, Kansas City, Mo., are visiting Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Branch and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cox.

Mr. and Mrs. Cline Franks, Fayetteville, spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Davis and W. T. Franks.

Earl O'Neal returned Thursday from a wild turkey hunt on the White River with three.

Ferguson of Conway.

better job opportunities and for marriage opportunities. Some girls mistakenly feel that intimacy, and even premarital pregnancy is the road to catching a husband at college.

There is no way in which a university of parents can watch over every boy and girl on the campus. By 18, conduct is essentially the individual's decision. It is the early training in childhood, provided by the parents, that determines whether or not the student has an inner control by the time he reaches college age.

What Makes Some People Great

People have always sought the secret of success. It's often felt that if we just knew enough about the great figures in human history, we'd find some common denominator, some spark, that was the key to their ascent to the heights.

The National Association for Gifted Children has completed what is probably the most extensive investigation of the components of greatness ever made. In doing this, it has exploded both the popular conception of the mad genius, and the psychologist's demand for a tranquil, harmonious family relationship.

Of all the 400 geniuses studied, real mental disorder was only found in one case, the Russian ballet dancer Nijinsky. And the frequency of mental disorders of any kind was far below the average for the general population. Even imbalance among the parents of these 400 greats was insignificant, two fathers and one mother having been hospitalized for mental illness. So, instead of geniuses having a streak of madness in them, it would seem that one of the reasons for their success is that they had their wits about them.

What might sometimes be taken for madness could very well be the workings of a productive imagination which works in unusual ways.

Forty-nine of the 400 came from homes that were warm and harmonious. All the rest had some kind of turbulence in their early lives. Many parents deserted, others died when the child was very young. Finances went up and down drastically, the parents were continually quarreling. Most of the 400 great personalities came from broken or troubled homes.

The study didn't reach any conclusions which would give the reason for their findings. But one guess might be that some kind of stimulation, some reason to grow up quickly and face a work of adult difficulties, often jogs a person out of complacency and into the use of all his talents.

Mays Carries Giants Over Braves 10-8

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

They're tearing down the Polo Grounds, and Willie Mays is ripping up Candlestick Park.

Mays, 3,000 miles and seven years removed from New York's Polo Grounds, hammered his third home run in two games Wednesday night, triggering a 10-run third-inning uprising that carried the Giants to a 10-8 victory over Milwaukee.

It was the biggest inning for the Giants since the team pulled out of New York and moved West after the 1957 season.

Mays, the only member of the Giants who played with the club while the Polo Grounds was called home, now does most of his hitting at Candlestick Park. In the first two games of the season he has collected three hits and three homers. He hit a pair against the Braves Tuesday, then followed with a three-run shot Wednesday.

The St. Louis Cardinals also came up with a big inning, rapping Don Drysdale for five runs in the eighth inning en route to a 6-2 victory over Los Angeles—their first triumph over the world champion Dodgers in their last five regular-season games.

In other action, Bill Virdon drew a bases-loaded walk in the 12th inning that forced in the winning run in Pittsburgh's 5-4 decision over the Chicago Cubs, and Jim Bunning won his first game as a National Leaguer by pitching Philadelphia to a 4-1 victory over the New York Mets. Houston and Cincinnati were not scheduled.

Only one American League game was played, Washington whipping the Los Angeles Angels 6-4.

The Giants started rolling in the third inning after winning pitcher Jack Sanford drew a two-out walk off Bob Sadowski. Before it was over the Giants had lashed six hits—including the homer by Mays and a three-run double by Sanford his second time around.

Despite the cushion, Sanford needed relief help from Bob Shaw, a former Brave, Ed Bailey, acquired by Milwaukee in the trade for Shaw, hit a solo homer off Sanford and Eddie Mathews connected with a man aboard.

The Cardinals' winning rally also was started by the winning pitcher when Bob Gibson stroked a single. After Gibson moved over to second, Drysdale intentionally walked Bill White but got crossed up on his strategy by hitting Charley James with a pitch.

Ken Boyer then rapped a two-run single that broke a 1-1 tie and Johnny Lewis, Curt Flood and Tim McCarver followed with run-scoring singles. Frank Howard got a run back for the Dodgers in the ninth with his second homer in two days.

Nicklaus Choice in Houston Meet

HOUSTON (AP)—Jack Nicklaus was the popular choice as the $50,000 Houston Golf Classic opened today but Phil Rodgers has looked sharp during practice rounds.

Rodgers, former University of Houston star, fired a three-under-par 68 during final practice Wednesday over the 7,223-yard par 35-36-71 Sharpstown Country Club course, where the Classic is being held for the first time.

Nicklaus, who finished second in the Masters with Dave Marr last Sunday, drew 3-1 odds as the Classic favorite.

Rodgers' 68 was the low score of the day in the pro-amateur and he picked up 250 in prize money for it.

World of Sports Has an Exhibit

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—There's a World's Fair about to open in our town—somewhere near Shea Stadium. The promoters won't let you forget that fact, but it comes to mind that they've overlooked one important thing, a cultural and scientific exhibit from the world of sports.

Sure, there'll be plenty of sports events for fair visitors—Olympic trials in everything from fencing to Greco-Roman wrestling, horse racing at the Big A and the little R and Y, the Yankees playing baseball and the Mets playing whatever it is they play. But there's nothing from sports akin to those exhibits of great art, scientific marvels and commercial achievements.

It wouldn't take much space—just a little pavilion—perhaps a replica of the house that John L. Sullivan could lick any man in. For color it could be surrounded by flagpoles carrying the national flags of the Irish of old Notre Dame.

Inside there could be a section for the memorabilia of each major sport. For instance, the baseball area could display the hot dog that gave Babe Ruth the stomach ache felt 'round the world, Joe McCarthy's pushbutton, the window Van Mungo dived through in Cuba, and a section of the pressroom bar from Ebbets Field still inscribed with the angry notes Larry MacPhail wrote to Leo Durocher.

A modern feature, of course, would be Charley Finley's unused Pennant Porch. There'd still be room for Red Patterson's tape measure for determining the length of Mickey Mantle's homers, a jug of syrup from Happy Chandler's voice, a collection of vegetables tossed at Joe Medwick during the 1934 World Series and Casey Stengel's pronouncing dictionary and a copy of the minutes of a Senate committee containing Casey's address on the reserve clause.

They might even get Judge Landis' hat if Ford Frick could be persuaded to forego wearing it for the duration of the fair.

The boxing exhibit, of course, should be centered around the bed Joe Jacobs should of stood in. It could include Floyd Patterson's false whiskers, the "Zomethings" Max Schmeling saw, and such significant documents as Cassius Clay's IQ test and Archie Moore's birth certificate.

Elsewhere, the exhibits might include a set of Tommy Bolt's broken golf clubs, the 11-foot pole presented to Coach Adolph Rupp after he said gamblers couldn't touch his Kentucky basketball players with a 10-foot pole, Y. A. Tittle's hair, the imaginary finish line where Willie Shoemaker pulled up Galant Man in the 1957 Derby, Arnold Palmer's checkbook, the beat-up sneakers the football Giants wore in winning the 1934 NFL playoff from the Bears, a collection of bookie slips autographed by famous basketball players, a thermometer showing the boiling points of Howie Young and Red Auerbach. . . . And dominating the scene, a life-size portrait of Staggy tearing Purdue.

Gray and Hatfield Start Working Out

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Quarterback Billy Gray and tailback Ken Hatfield joined the Arkansas football team in spring practice here Wednesday.

Gray and Hatfield, also a defensive safety, had been playing with the Razorback baseball team, and missed the first four sessions of spring football practice.

Coach Frank Broyles saw films of Saturday's scrimmage and praised tackles Mike Bender and Dick Cunningham, end Stan Sparks and fullback Tommy Sain.

Broyles indicated, however, that he was not pleased with Wednesday's workout. He would not elaborate.

Cunningham went on the injury list with a slight muscle pull. Also injured are tackle Jerry Welsh, fullback Charles Daniel, and end Richard Trail, who may miss the remainder of spring practice.

Skowron Right at Home With the Senators

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bill Skowron is home. That sweet sight for Skowron is the American League, where he starred with the New York Yankees for nine years before being shipped to the National League.

The 33-year-old first baseman, now with Washington, officially marked his return Wednesday night with a home run that ignited a six-run outburst in the second inning, the Senators' biggest in two seasons.

The splurge carried the defending cellar champions to a 6-4 triumph over the Los Angeles Angels in the only American League game.

In the National League, Willie Mays hit his third homer in two games as San Francisco knocked off Milwaukee 10-8. St. Louis defeated Los Angeles 6-2. Pittsburgh nipped Chicago 5-4 on a 12th-inning walk to Bill Virdon with the bases loaded and Philadelphia whipped New York 4-1.

Skowron's home run, his first hit as a Senator, was his first in the league since Sept. 25, 1962. Two months after that homer, which incidentally was against the Senators, the Yankees sent him to the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Skowron might not have felt like an alien in the National League, but his .203 average didn't exactly make him feel as if he belonged.

He wound up the regular season with a mere four home runs and 19 runs batted in before erupting in the World Series and helping the Dodgers to a four-game sweep of his former teammates.

Following the first baseman's big hit Wednesday night, starting pitcher Bennie Daniels singled in one run, Don Blasingame singled for two more and Chuck Hinton drove in the last pair with a triple.

Huff Thinks About His Retirement

NEW YORK (AP)—Sam Huff is debating whether to play football with the Washington Redskins or make the textile business a full-time career.

The 29-year-old linebacker, traded to the Redskins by the New York Giants last week, has had one meeting with Bill McPeak, the general manager-coach of Washington.

"We had a long talk about football matters but money was not discussed," said Huff. "He told me why he wanted me. I told him my problems. I'll probably get together with him again next week."

Huff said he must make "the biggest decision of my life." The former West Virginia University star works for a textile firm on a part-time basis during the football season and regularly during the off season.

"I received several letters and phone calls since the deal," said Huff. "People come up to me on the street and tell me how sorry they are to see me go. It makes you feel good. I have no animosity toward the Giants. That is the type of business football is. It hurts when it comes. You never really expect it to happen to you."

9 Idle Days Could Hurt the Celtics

BOSTON (AP)—"Sorry you broke your leg, baby."

That macabre bit of humor from Tom Sanders of the Boston Celtics may sum up the roughness expected in tonight's final Western Division National Basketball Association championship game between St. Louis and the Warriors at San Francisco.

The Celtics, growing edgy from the long lay-off as they await the outcome, were commenting on the Hawks-Warriors series after a long workout Wednesday.

"That figures to be a tough seventh game," said Sanders. "You know, go up for a lay-up and three guys tackle you and say, 'Sorry, baby, this is the last game of the season. Sorry you broke your leg, baby.'"

The playoff championship series opens at Boston Garden Saturday night, regardless of the Western Division outcome.

That means that Boston, which won its eighth straight Eastern Division playoff crown by ousting Cincinnati last Thursday night, will have been idle for nine days when the "money series" opens here.

"It'll be like getting in shape all over again," said Tommy Heinsohn.

It means getting his players to a mental peak again," added Coach Red Auerbach. "And it's tough getting them up after beating the Royals in five games."

However, the Celtics were idle nearly two weeks between the end of the regular season and the opening of the Cincinnati series. And Boston had surpris-

Final Pro Playoff to Be Rough

By JACK STEVENSON

Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Gunning for the Western playoff championship of the National Basketball Association and the basket of cash going with it, the St. Louis Hawks battle the San Francisco Warriors tonight at the Cow Palace in the decider of their seven-game series.

Waiting in the wings to see who'll break the 3-3 tie are the Boston Celtics, the defending NBA champs who won the Eastern playoffs from the Cincinnati Royals a week ago.

The Celtics reportedly are incensed over the long wait.

"Nonsense," says General Manager Bob Federick of the Warriors. "The rest gives them the advantage over either of us who must play tonight and then be in Boston to open the finals on Saturday night. And the Celtics know it."

Originally the final Western game was scheduled Tuesday but the San Francisco Seals had the Cow Palace reserved that night for a Western Hockey Association playoff game against Los Angeles.

As the Hawks and Warriors go into their deciding game before an anticipated crowd of 10,000, Wilt Chamberlain must be the big man no matter how you look at his 7-foot-1-inch height.

For if the Hawks can check his shooting, they'll probably win since the other Warriors haven't been consistent with outside shooting. In setting defenses, the visitors will have two or even three harrassing Wits.

At stake in the cash department tonight is a purse of $12,500 for the winning team against $10,000 for the loser. That difference isn't so great but the winner goes into the final playoff where the purses will be $25,000 and $17,000. The loser tonight goes home.

Through six playoff games, Chamberlain leads the scoring with 215 points and has grabbed 143 rebounds.

Finns Train for the 26 Mile Race

By BOB SALMON

Associated Press Sports Writer

VOLUNTOWN, Conn. (AP)—Two marathoners from Finland are training here for next Monday's 26-mile-plus run in Boston. Other marathoners should be happy that the two aren't three.

The two are Paavo Pystynen and Tenho Salaaka. The third man—who isn't here—is sturdy Eino Oksanen, who won the Boston A.A. Marathon three times between 1959 and 1962.

The bandy-legged Oksanen, a Helsinki detective, is the defending Nordic champion—with all the Scandinavian nations included—but is not entered for the Boston run this year.

A spokesman for Pystynen and Salaaka says Finland likes to send as large a variety of runners as possible and thus is keeping Oksanen, preparing for the 1964 Olympics.

However, Pystynen and Salaaka can't be considered second-raters.

"Finland likes to give as many top runners a chance to run in Boston as possible," says Ernest Johansson, who has been the unofficial U.S. host for Finland's marathoners for the past decade.

"They like to mix it up, so to speak, with their runners," said Johansson, who also interprets for the 32-year-old Pystynen and the 29-year-old Salaaka. "Pystynen won the national championship in Finland last year and Oksanen, Pystynen and Salaaka all finished high in the Nordic championship—Eino winning it."

"In fact, Finland won the first six places in the Nordic marathon—the first time any Scandinavian nation had ever done such a thing. So, you see, Finland has more than one outstanding marathoner."

Pystynen, a career Finnish army sergeant, and Salaaka, a paper mill worker, are training only 20 miles from Groton, Conn., where Johnny Kelley, the only U.S. winner in the past 18 years of the Boston Marathon teaches school.

Women Try for Olympic Swim Team

By ED SCHUYLER JR.

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Divers and distance swimmers pooled their talents today at the opening of the Olympic-flavored Senior National AAU women's indoor swimming and diving championships at the University of Pittsburgh.

The diving event was the one-meter, with Patsy Willard of the Dick Smith Gym of Phoenix, Ariz., defending champion among those entered. Finals will be held tonight.

Also on tonight's card is the 1,650-yard freestyle, which is being held as part of the indoor championships for the first time this year. The winner will be determined by comparative times of heats.

About 250 of the nation's top female swimmers—the largest field ever entered—will compete in the four-day meet.

Th girls have an added incentive this year—the Olympics. The first six finishers in each event will qualify for the U.S. Olympic team tryouts in New York in late summer.

Back to defend its team title is the powerful Santa Clara Calif. Swim Club, which includes six individual champions on its 15-member squad. Santa Clara also won both team relays in 1963.

Heading the Santa Clara team is 16-year-old Donna Devarona, a member of the 1960 Olympic team and the world record holder in the 400-meter individual medley. She will be defending her national titles in the 200-yard and 400-yard individual medley races.

Another top hopeful for the Olympics, Sharon Finneran, will be swimming for Santa Clara in this meet. Miss Finneran, the defending 500-yard freestyle titlist, was a member of the Los Angeles Athletic Club team last year.

last year's record-time winner, Aurele Vandendriessche of Belgium, are considered the four top favorites for this year's 68th testing.

Finnish entries have won the Boston Marathon six times in the past 10 years.

Defense Talk on Asia Was Denounced

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—In 1950 Secretary of State Dean Acheson talked on the American defense line in the Pacific and denounced for years afterwards. Republicans made him a punching bag.

It was one of the twists of history — or politics — that Gen. Douglas MacArthur 10 months before drew exactly the same defense line but this time went unmentioned by Acheson's critics and defenders.

Among the critics were Sens. Joseph McCarthy and Robert A. Taft and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower. Even when MacArthur died April 5, what he said in 1949 must have been long forgotten. This writer found no mention of it.

This was the background. In 1949 the Chinese Communists were smashing Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists on the China mainland. Formosa, an island 100 miles off the coast, belonged to China.

On March 1, 1949, MacArthur — in an interview with an English newspaperman, Ward Price — discussed the American defense perimeter in the Pacific. The interview was published in the New York Times March 3.

MacArthur said the Anglo-Saxon "line of defense runs through the chain of islands fringing the coast of Asia." He listed them, from the Aleutians to the Philippines, through Japan. He left out Formosa.

In December 1949, his army and what was left of his army fled to Formosa. But by then the United States had given up on him and on Jan. 5, 1950, President Harry S. Truman called in newsmen to make a statement.

He said the United States would take no action to defend Chiang and his forces on Formosa, that it was a Chinese problem. This was an administration policy decision.

On Jan. 12, 1950, Acheson supported Truman and explained the decision in a talk at the National Press Club.

Repeating what MacArthur had said 10 months before, Acheson put the American defense line in the Pacific off the Asian coast and in the string of islands from the Aleutians to the Philippines. He, too, omitted Formosa.

He then went further than MacArthur and sought to answer the natural question raised by his statement: What about protecting other areas in the Pacific and Asia from attack.

Acheson said: "It must be clear that no person can guarantee these areas against military attack. But it must be clear that such a guarantee is hardly sensible or necessary within the realm of practical relationships."

If such an attack did occur, he said, "the initial reliance must be on the people attacked to resist it and then upon the commitments of the entire civilized world under the charter of the United Nations which so far has not proved a weak reed to lean on by any people who are determined to protect their independence against outside aggression."

While Acheson didn't commit the United States to the defense of any country attacked in Asia, he didn't say the United States wouldn't try to defend it. He left the door open for an American decision later.

A would-be attacker could construe it either way. But the United States had just gone through an experience with Chiang whose government and forces had frittered away American help.

On June 25, 1950, the North Korean Communists attacked South Korea. Truman acted at once: He sent American forces to the defense of Korea, under MacArthur. The United Nations quickly joined in. And Truman defended Formosa from Red Chinese attack.

Seven days after the attack started MacArthur denounced Acheson for "telling the world" before the war began that the United States would not intervene.

On August 7, Taft said "we invited the attack" because Acheson "announced last winter that we would not defend Korea and Formosa."

And during the 1952 presidential campaign—MacArthur was keynote speaker at the Republican convention which nominated Eisenhower — they also denounced Acheson along the same lines.

"Pretty in pink" is an old-fashioned saying that would hold true for this pretty salad plate with the Spicy Oat Snack Mix as an accompaniment. The protein in the cereal snack mix and in the glass of milk supplement each other and make an important nutritional contribution to the adequacy of a fresh fruit salad luncheon plate. It's not often that one finds a combination that is so attractive, so full of appetite appeal, yet so nutritious.

1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
Combine oats, butter or margarine, and spices; stir to coat cereal evenly. Yield: 4 cups.

Peaceful Loses Another Friend

CHESTER, Pa. (AP)—Wonderful Hawis told a magistrate Monday he was completely peaceful last weekend when police found on his person a cat-of-nine-tails, a loaded starter pistol with steel slivers in the barrel, a knife and a homemade brass knuckle.

The magistrate said, "Carrying any of these things is against the law. I want you to know that and tell your friends."

"I don't have any friends," Wonderful said.

"Well," said the magistrate, "you just lost another. I'm fining you $300 and $9 costs."

Foreign Aid in for Hard Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., conceded after a brief but stormy hearing in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today that foreign aid "is in for another hard year."

The committee, headed by Fulbright, held an early forenoon session on one part of the administration's $3.4 billion request for the program, but Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., forced a stop promptly at 10 o'clock because the Senate was meeting to resume the civil rights battle.

"There is no hurry about this bill," Morse told the other committee members. "We may be able to get around to it in November or December."

David E. Belg, administrator of the Agency for International Development, told Fulbright he and his aides are willing to testify whenever the committee can find time to listen.

State to Test Flameless Blanket

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The state Health Department has received a $13,750 federal grant to finance a test of flame-resistant bedding materials.

Dr. J. T. Herron, state health officer, said the material, if it proves effective, could save countless lives now being lost in bed fires.

Herron said the test will be conducted in two nursing homes in north Arkansas. Each will receive blankets, sheets and pillow cases containing a fabric known as Eastman Verel.

The homes will keep records on the use of the material, including washing and ironing. Periodically samples will be sent to a laboratory in New Orleans to determine how long the material remains fire-retardant under normal circumstances.

Names of the homes where the test will be conducted were not announced.

'Fire' Craft Blazes Back Information

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A spacecraft named Fire blazed back through the atmosphere much faster than any space payload Tuesday night and radioed a wealth of information which could make manned trips to the moon safer.

The spacecraft, looking like a compact model of the Apollo moonship, rode an Atlas missile more than 500 miles into space. As it plummeted back toward earth, a 10-foot-long rocket fired and increased payload speed from about 15,000 to 25,166 miles an hour.

The speed was slightly higher than that the Apollocraft is to attain in returning astronauts from the moon. It also was more than 7,000 miles an hour faster than the velocity recorded by any previous space vehicle re-entering the earth's atmosphere.

As the 200-pound payload made the meteoric dive, it radioed information on the heat that seared its blunt shield.

A great shock wave built up in front of the payload and temperature of gases within the wave reached 200,000 degrees.

An observer at the South Atlantic tracking station on Ascension Island described the spacecraft as a ball of fire.

Herbert A. Wilson, Project Fire manager or the space agency's Langley Research Center, told newsmen he was very pleased with initial data from the 32-minute flight. A tape recorder stored heat data during the peak period of re-entry when

THE STORY: Tony Malcolm, who is on a collision route to oblivion, has exhausted all possible sources for help, or money which he needs to buy a drink. His search brings him to Tani, a woman he thinks will help him if he can amuse her.

IV

Tani wore faded blue jeans, a man's white shirt, and sandals made of thongs and flat pieces of supple leather. She was small and slim, with thick black hair and eyes that were dark and slick as cherries against her smooth brown skin.

"Who told you I like to be amused?" she asked Malcolm in a low voice. She spoke English with a faint accent.

She wore no make-up at all, her face was scrubbed clean as a child's, but there were heavy silver bracelets on both of her narrow wrists.

"An Englishman, a tall and very proper Englishman." That would impress her, he thought.

Tani continued to stare im-

The recorder made a full report on stored data before the craft plunged into the ocean 5,200 miles southeast of Cape Kennedy.

passively at him, but there was something different about her eyes now, a sharpening of interest, and a hint of cruelty or speculation. Finally she said, "You are going to amuse me? Make me smile?"

"Yes, yes, that's it," Malcolm said excitedly.

"I know a fabulous story, a terribly funny story," Malcolm looked at her pleadingly. "And if you think it's funny, will you give me something to drink?"

"Very well, let me hear the story."

"Yes, of course," Malcolm said. He began pacing again. But then, so abruptly that it startled him, the name of a dog he had once known blazed in his thoughts as clearly and vividly as a brand burned into soft wood. Toto!

"Once upon a time I knew a girl. Many years ago in New York. She was young and lovely. She allowed me to take her to dinner, to drive her to various appointments—she was a model, you see, for fashion magazines. I was one of a dozen young men who served her as faithful supplicants."

"Please finish it quickly," she said, and there was such coldness in her voice that a tremor of fear shook him.

"I loved her enough to marry her. She said to me, as girls will, 'This is such a surprise, I had no idea you felt this way. I must have time to think it over.' She thought about it for a week," Malcolm said, studying Tani's expressionless face hopefully.

"When the week was up, I hurried around to her apartment for the verdict. But she was gone. Tani! The manager of the building told me that she had gone to Florida for the winter. But there was a note for me. She told me that she didn't love me. She was sorry, she wished she could love me, but the fact was she just plain didn't. But she liked and respected me, she appreciated my companionship and devotion, and, as proof of this, she had decided to leave a token of her esteem for me. Something which I had obviously loved almost as much as I had loved her—" Malcolm laughed exuberantly.

"Go away from here," Tani said.

"No, no," Malcolm said, shaking his head desperately. The words that came from his throat were like a hideous little moan.

"Don't say that, please. It's funny, Tani."

"You are drunk and you are stupid," she said.

"It's not fair, it isn't at all," Malcolm said. The anger in him grew hotly and dangerously.

"You want misery, pain, terror. I can give you all you want. Listen: seven months ago my wife was killed." Malcolm spat out the words as if they were hot coals on his tongue.

"She was decent and kind and lovely. But she died in a flaming coffin seven months ago. She left me on this stupid, meaningless earth. She left me all alone."

Malcolm put a hand against the wall to steady himself. "She left me forever," he said in a straining voice. "She's gone and I can find no one to replace her if I searched the world for eternity. I am alone, and I'll never find her again."

Tani laughed softly. "That's

Song About Air Corp Fits in Viet Nam

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The song about "The Army Air Corps" still fits in South Viet Nam.

U.S. Army fliers are drawing bullets from the Viet Cong and snide remarks from the regular Air Force.

A "grass roots air force," Army reconnaissance fighter bombers sweep daily over the flat, green Mekong River delta, photographing and harassing the enemy.

The pilots contend their plane is better than any of the combat planes the U.S. and Vietnamese air force are using in Viet Nam. It is a twin-engine, Grumman Mohawk, or JOVIC.

Some Air Force men argue it's too hot a plane for the Army, and that the Army is hording in on an Air Force function by using it.

Pilots of the Army's 23rd Special Warfare Aviation detachment who fly the Mohawk say they're not trying to compete with anyone, but are just doing a job. One pilot observed:

"We need the Air Force for cover. Our job is in close ground support. We work directly with infantry division commanders in the field. When they need pictures of the enemy, we can supply them in a few hours, and we can get them where they're needed."

The turbine-powered Mohawks carry, besides sophisticated camera equipment, rockets and two 50-caliber machine guns. They could carry bombs and napalm tanks, but none of the half-dozen Mohawks in South Viet Nam are permitted this extra ordnance.

Pilots of the 23rd believe, nevertheless, that they are the only U.S. Army unit flying combat planes in combat anywhere in the world.

The Mohawks are scheduled for integration into a provisional Army aviation battalion, which will include helicopters, light spotting planes, and transport and administration craft. They are part of the Army's support command in Viet Nam, headed by Brig. Gen. John C. Stilwell.

Upholds Suspension of Negro Officers

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP)—The permanent suspension of two of Huntsville's original three Negro policemen has been upheld by City Council, and the third has resigned.

The council voted unanimously in a closed-door session Monday night to uphold Chief Floyd Dyar's suspension of Carl Bailey and John Christmas. After the hearing Charles Huggins resigned.

Dyar suspended the men April 6. He said they refused to leave his office when he asked them to after listening to their grievances about working conditions.

much better. That's very funny."

Malcolm lunged across the ottoman, his fingers clawing for her slim throat. But he stumbled weakly across her languid legs, and would have pitched to the floor except for the powerful hands which caught him and pushed him roughly toward the door.

"Don't hurt him, Jorge," Tani said. "He did make me smile, after all."

Jorge opened the door, placed a foot in the small of Malcolm's back and kicked him through the doorway into the street.

Brazil Enters New Chapter in History

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ

BRASILIA, Brazil (AP) — A new chapter, possibly one of the most significant in Brazil's recent political history, opens today with the inauguration of Gen. Humberto Castello Branco as president.

How strong a hand the military will take in running the country and the prospects for political peace should be determined during the 21 months the 64-year-old former army chief of staff heads the interim government.

The military leaders of the anti-Communist coup that overthrew President Joao Goulart have promised elections for a new president in October 1965, when Goulart's successor would have been chosen.

There was a marked lack of interest in non-official circles as authorities completed preparations for the inauguration.

No flags or banners flew in Brasilia's business district. Residents of the capital seemed to go about their tasks totally indifferent to the event.

Basically, Castello Branco's regime is intended to provide a transition from military back to civilian control. But his decisions could chart the course of the ailing nation.

The extent of military influence is expected to become apparent early. The composition of Castello Branco's Cabinet also should determine the degree of ultra-conservative sentiment in the government.

All this will undoubtedly determine the reaction of the sizable segment of the population most seriously affected by the recent coup. This is made up of voters who gave big electoral majorities to Goulart and his Labor party.

Left-wing extremists infiltrated this powerful force. But it also sought dramatic reforms in an attempt to bring Brazil out of its social and economic stagnation.

The military recently deprived this group of most of its leaders by suspending their political rights.

Castello Branco faces a need for drastic measures to halt whirlwind inflation that has brought Brazil to the brink of economic ruin.

Interim President Paschoal Ranieri Mazzilli, the Chamber of Deputies president who succeeded Goulart, warned in a broadcast Tuesday night that Brazil's deficit for 1964 will total 1.5 trillion cruzeiros—$833.3 million at the current exchange rate.

Low-Fat, Low-Calorie

Strawberry Treat

No one need feel sorry for the person on a low-fat, low-calorie diet when he can enjoy a dessert as delectable as the one shown here. . . . Fresh Strawberry Dessert Sauce over fruit-flavored sherbet. This marvelous sauce costs the dieter just 5 calories per tablespoon as compared with 37 calories had it been sweetened with sugar instead of the non-calorie sweetener, Sucaryl, used here.

This recipe is a sample of the more than 300 low-fat, low-calorie treats to be found in an intriguing new diet book by Helen Belinke, "The Low-Fat Cookbook for Gourmets" (David McKay: $4.95). Mrs. Belinke is an old hand at the art of calorie cutting, having previously authored "The Gourmet in the Low-Calorie Kitchen."

The fat-reduced, calorie-stripped culinary triumphs in her new cookbook have been accomplished through "minor miracles in substitution." Mrs. Belinke uses fats of the polyunsaturated type, skim milk instead of whole milk, and the calorie-free sweetener in place of sugar. The author warns, "Don't deny yourself or your family the sweets they look forward to at the end of the meal. They can cost you practically nothing in the way of cholesterol, and (can be) controlled in calories as well."

Here is Mrs. Belinke's recipe:

Crossett to Vote on Six New Plants

CROSSETT, Ark. (AP)—Officials of the Georgia Pacific Co. today announced plans for construction of six new manufacturing plants which will provide 550 new jobs in Crossett. Estimated cost of the overall project is 10.8 million.

Building of the plants is contingent on approval by Crossett voters of $9.3 million in Act 9 revenue bonds to finance construction.

C. Norman, vice president and general manager of Georgia Pacific's Crossett Division, said the company plans:

1. A southern pine plywood plant costing $4.8 million.
2. A grocery bag plant costing $750,000.
3. A milk carton plant costing $2.1 million.
4. A polyethylene extrusion plant costing $2.4 million.
5. An industrial towel plant costing $750,000.
6. A rosin plant costing $750,000.

Georgia Pacific pioneered production of southern pine plywood at its plant in Fordyce. The first plywood was produced there earlier this year.

The company said today that the Fordyce plant recently employed 30 additional men and went to a three-shift, seven-day operation.

Gerald B. Vogel, production manager at the Fordyce plant, said that pine plywood products were getting an excellent reception in the building materials market.

Norman said that as a consequence of the new construction, Georgia Pacific would reduce its sawmilling operation here. About 250 of 525 sawmill jobs will be lost but not until the plywood plant is in operation.

The net gain to Crossett, a bustling lumber and paper mill town, will be 300 jobs.

Norman said the company was asking for only a $9.3 million bond issue because $1.5 million already has been provided for the pine plywood plant under a bond issue previously approved by voters.

Norman estimated that the plywood plant will be in production early next year. The grocery bag plant already is near completion, he said, and it should start production within a few weeks.

Democrats Planning to Stop Wallace

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Sen. Daniel B. Brewster announced today he will be helped by an administration task force of speakers in his campaign to ward off Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama in Maryland's Democratic presidential primary May 19.

The Maryland senator, standing in for President Johnson in the primary, expressed concern over finding apparent strong support for Wallace's segregation views.

Brewster said that he has been cursed, booed and spit at by people at Democratic rallies in his native Baltimore County and neighboring Baltimore City.

There's a heavy undercurrent from which Wallace is going to draw considerable support, and it cannot be ignored, Brewster said.

He said that Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., and "a substantial number of other friends" will join him in speaking appearances.

"One or more of my friends will accompany me to a meeting each night," and with me give the party call for responsibility, Brewster said.

Wallace said he would come to Maryland to stay a day or two after the May 5 primary in Indiana in which he also is a candidate.

Other Obstacle In Congress

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — According to a source familiar with the situation, the Senate is expected to pass a bill to assist in the 1962 grand opening of Bobby Baker's Carousel Motel and carried with them food, table linens, cooking utensils and other items. The plush Ocean City, Md., motel was promoted by Baker, who at the time was secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority.

Nothing appears on the restaurant's books, Williams said, adding that the only explanation he could think of was "that this service was either rendered free, at government expense, or at a very low rate which they do not wish to reveal."

The Senate Rules Committee, which has jurisdiction over the restaurant, recently has investigated how Baker built up a fortune he placed at upwards of $2 million while on the Senate payroll at $19,600 a year.

Baker resigned under fire last Oct. 7 after questions were raised about his outside business.

Ruta Lee, who convinced Soviet authorities that her elderly grandmother should be permitted to leave Lithuania, has another potential obstacle: the United States Congress.

Miss Lee, 27, had been trying to get her grandmother, Ludvika Kamandulis, 84, to California.

She said she learned Tuesday that the U.S. quota for Lithuanians is filled—"Maybe for a couple of years. And at 84, how long can you wait?"

She got the news, she said, from the State Department by telephone.

The telephone call to the Kremlin last winter resulted in a visa that permitted her to visit her grandmother in Lithuania.

Rocketful of Fun and Flowers Sparks Space-Age Spring Party

Fresh as the new season is a fun-filled party idea for saluting it: a welcome to springing space-age style right off the top of the dining table. The "recipe," from Melamine Council decorating experts, is quick and easy. Here's all you'll need to set the stage: a large cardboard mailing tube or a flexible piece of cardboard for rolling tube shape, an oblong piece of green plastic foam for a centerpiece base, and an armful of gay spring posies.

The cardboard tube, covered in a jiffy with silver foil and trimmed with narrow strips of colored tape, becomes a shiny rocket; its tailfins are slender triangles snipped from the foil and pasted in place. Cut to proper size for your table top, the plastic foam is a ready-made launching pad which serves to hold the angled rocket firmly in position. In mere minutes, most of the job is done; now for the flowers and finishing touches.

First, fill the empty rocket with a just-for-fun assortment of small party favors, matched to your guest list. Seed packets, for example, for garden club friends... lollipops or fortune cookies for small fry... tiny gift-wrapped boxes of golf tees or fish hooks for the men you're inviting. Keep them light in weight—and light-hearted! Then, to complete this delightful moon-shot centerpiece, simply plant the foam launching pad with massed fresh flowers, saving one tightly bunched small bouquet to insert in the top of the rocket as a removable nose cone.

To make the whole setting as lovely as the season itself, of course you'll want to add colorful linens and your nicest dinnerware, like the modern melamine service shown here. Its smartly precise border design, adding an appropriate "outer space" accent, represents an exciting new trend toward geometric decorations in this durable party-proof dinnerware. Abstract motifs circling the border of this pattern appear in bright pink and mocha on a white ground, with matching pink cups and bowls.

With a knowing eye for color harmony, this talented young hostess has chosen pink posies mixed with white ones, a fuselin linen cloth and strawberry pink napkins to echo the rich pink tones of the melamine dinnerware. Take a tip from her table top, and you'll be all set for a happy-go-lucky springtime countdown when your guests ring the doorbell.

Union Pays Senate Restaurant Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., said today that James R. Hoffa's Teamsters Union ran up a bill of $4,248.93 in the Senate restaurant last year for luncheons. He said he was advised the bill was paid four or five months after the luncheons.

In a Senate speech, Williams also said that the chef and other restaurant personnel were sent to assist in the 1962 grand opening of Bobby Baker's Carousel Motel and carried with them food, table linens, cooking utensils and other items. The plush Ocean City, Md., motel was promoted by Baker, who at the time was secretary to the Senate's Democratic majority.

Perhaps You Don't Believe in the Common Superstitions But That Means Very Little

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Sidewalk comments of a Pavement Plato: Do you knock on wood three times to avoid bad luck? Do you carry a silver dollar or some other object in your pocket to bring good luck? If your answer in both cases is no, then you aren't a believer in the two most common American superstitions. But that by no means is proof you aren't superstitious.

Many people go through life without becoming religious, at least to the extent of adhering to a formal creed, but hardly any of us escape becoming devotees, consciously or unconsciously, of some of the thousands of superstitions that exist in the world.

Since the universe is large and man is small, he has sought since the dawn of his time to find some way of being less uneasy and feeling more comfortable and secure in that universe. Superstition was his first answer—the taking of some step that would either get the dark forces of destiny of his side, or at least keep their anger from destroying him.

"If you can't be for me, please don't be against me," cried ancient man—and knocked three times on a tree to placate the spirits he felt dwelt therein.

Today we still knock on wood three times at moments of possible peril, and we do it mockingly as if we were joking. But the main thing is—we still do it. Childhood chants are full of superstition. Can't you recall skipping along the pavement as a youngster and saying "Step on a crack, and break your grandmother's back"? And when you did step on a crack, weren't you half afraid that you have brought bodily disaster to that dear old lady?

As we grow older many of us make up fresh superstitions of our own out of the rituals of living we acquire along the way.

I know of one man who is sure everything will go wrong the rest of the day if he nicks his face while shaving. I know another who has similar premonitions of bad luck if he turns off the alarm clock with his left rather than his right hand.

Man may someday take the superstition out of science; science will probably never quite take the superstition out of man.

CALCUTTA, India (AP)—A power struggle appears under way in the little Himalayan kingdom of Bhutan, where Premier Jigme Dorji was assassinated April 5.

The arrest Monday of the deputy army commander, Gen. Chappa Namgyal Bahadur, in connection with Dorji's murder, was seen as part of a move by Bhutan's ruler, Maharaja Hwachuk, to assert his authority.

ROME (AP)—Rome's coffee bars, restaurants, pastry and wine shops were closed today by a 24-hour strike protesting rising costs.

An association representing the bars and restaurants called the shutdown to pressure the government to do something about inflation.

LONDON (AP)—A West European Socialist study group accused the Soviet government today of "an unprecedented campaign against Judaism" that has led to closure of 75 per cent of the synagogues in seven years.

The committee said a year's study showed that Jews in the Soviet Union are subject to severe discrimination.

MOSCOW (AP)—Czechoslovak President Antonin Novotny has left for Moscow for what was billed as a "friendly visit" to Soviet Premier Khrushchev, who marks his 70th birthday Friday.

Food Stamp, Cotton Bills a Trade Out

WASHINGTON (AP)—Northern Democrats wanted the food stamp bill, Southern Democrats wanted the cotton bill—so in a straight horse trade both passed.

Arkansas interests had been pressing for some kind of cotton bill for a year and a half. The cotton bill was passed by a close vote and sent to the President.

It was necessary for the Southern members to accept the food stamp bill to get the cotton bill through. Many didn't like the stamp bill and ordinarily wouldn't have voted for it.

Caught in the middle of the cross fire was Rep. E. C. Gathings, D-Ark. As chairman of the House cotton subcommittee Gathings had been pushing for a cotton bill since the fall of 1962. But he opposed the food stamp bill.

A few weeks ago Gathings cast one of the key votes in the Agriculture Committee to kill the food stamp bill.

But Northern big city Democrats indicated they would sit on their hands or oppose the cotton-wheat bill, and with Republicans almost solidly against the cotton bill, its chances were slim.

The next time an attempt was made to bring out the food stamp bill, Gathings switched and voted in committee to send the bill to the floor.

The stamp bill was approved 229-189 with the Arkansas members voting for it. A few hours later the cotton-wheat bill came to a vote and it squeezed through 211-203.

Gathings felt the cotton bill was too important to Arkansas' cotton industry to risk killing it by opposing the food stamp bill.

The new cotton law will be effective for only two years—1964 and 1965.

Under it, the cotton support price for 1964 will be 30 cents a pound, compared with 32½ cents last year, and for 1965 will be between 65 and 90 per cent of parity. It also provides for domestic acreage allotments—the acreage necessary to grow the cotton required for domestic use.

Growers planting within their domestic allotments, about two-thirds of their total allotment, are to be given an additional support price, not to exceed 4½ cents a pound.

Eligible to receive the bonus support for his entire production are farmers who plant 15 or less acres.

Big growers who want to plant more than their allotments may go as much as 10 per cent above, with the production on the excess acreage to move in world trade at world prices. Thus a big grower would get 30 cents a pound on cotton grown on his normal allotment and 24 cents a pound the world price, on the rest.

One big feature of the bill is a proviso aimed at ending the existing two-price system on cotton and allowing domestic mills to buy cotton at world prices, rather than at the support price. This will be done through issuance of payment-in-

Bob Thomas at the Movies

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A bit of history passed with scant notice earlier this month.

The Association of Motion Picture Producers and the Alliance of Television Film Producers announced they were combining to form a new organization called the Association of Motion Picture and Television Producers.

Not much was made of the news, yet it represents an important transition in the patterns of the entertainment industry. The wedding of movies and television is now officially sanctified with a marriage license.

Who could ever have foreseen such a happening? Certainly not Will Hays, the shrewd Hoosier who wielded czar-like power over the film producers he had kept unified. Perhaps not even his successor, Eric Johnston, who tried to maintain unity of a bedeviled industry.

Now both are dead and a new era begins. The upstart television has taken its official place as partner of the movie business.

The wedding could have come about only through the change of personnel and circumstances. The Louis B. Mayers and other film pioneers would not have countenanced it. They had carved empires by playing to masses in theaters; they could not understand giving entertainment away.

They thought if they ignored television it might go away. Their stars weren't permitted to appear on it. Television sets weren't even allowed in living room scenes.

But as television zoomed and movies declined, changes had to be made. First Columbia broke the ranks to make films for television, then Walt Disney. All of the others eventually joined in. But they were too late to effect a monopoly.

Augusta Man to Run for Office

BRINKLEY, Ark. (AP)—Forrest E. Long, Brinkley attorney and a former state representative, said Monday he will run for state senator in the 26th District.

Mrs. Dorothy Allen, widow of the late Sen. Tom Allen of Brinkley, and Lester Graves of Stuttgart already are in the race. Dr. John Miller of Brinkley announced that he would run, then withdrew.

The district includes Arkansas, Monroe, Lee and Phillips counties.

Long, who is 42 today, was Woodruff County representative from 1947 to 1949. He is a native of Augusta.

kind certificates.

This domestic subsidy for the mills is expected to keep the mills in the market for U.S. cotton rather than turning to increased use of synthetic fibers.

It also provides for a $10 million research program into ways of reducing the cost of cotton production.

What Now Is Reaction to False Report

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The immediate reaction to Monday's erroneous report that Soviet Premier Khrushchev had died was an accurate foretaste of exactly what Americans will be asking when he does die.

It was "what now?" Monday and it will be "what now?" then.

The Western world cannot help being haunted by the thought that Khrushchev's successor, when the time comes, may turn out to be not another Khrushchev but another Stalin, or an imitation of him.

Stalin was a nightmare: unpredictable, relentless, ruthless and obsessed with a determination, even a compulsion, to impose communism wherever he could as fast as he dared. He died in 1953.

Communism under Khrushchev—at least the Russian kind, as distinguished from that of the Red Chinese—looks less sick and, from the Western view, has taken a more endurable turn.

Not that there weren't bad moments under Khrushchev who was just as much a Communist as Stalin and tried his luck at the old man's game. The Berlin wall is an example. Putting missiles in Cuba is another.

He knew the United States and the Soviet Union could destroy each other in a nuclear war. But he had to find out if this country was willing to risk it. The Cuban missiles were his supreme test.

Once he found the answer was yes—when President John F. Kennedy met the challenge and backed him down—Khrushchev subsided. He has been purring since.

He has been well-balanced enough to accommodate himself to a reality: that bluster won't work and war is unthinkable. This requires the Soviet Union to be less belligerent, less reckless.

The alternative is obvious: the Soviet Union must concentrate more of its energies on building a Communist society that can try to match or outdo the West in comforts and thus make communism more attractive through affluence than conflict.

Last week he said in effect he prefers prosperity to revolution. It is over the Soviet Union's diminishing hostilities that the Red Chinese are supposed to be outraged. The roots go deeper.

The nationalism of the Soviet Union and China is stronger than their communism. Their antagonisms go far back. Only in this context can their so-called ideological differences make sense, for most of that is double-talk.

But it was Khrushchev himself who split the Communist world before the Chinese hit it with an ax. And in this, Khrushchev no doubt was compelled not by idealism but by contemporary necessity: treating the Russians as grown up.

The Russia that Stalin inherited from Lenin in the 1920s was an ignorant, unschooled, primitive world. He had a choice: organize its energies by reason or terror. He chose terror, which was part of his nature.

As a crutch and excuse for the discipline of terror he insisted upon infallibility, which became his justification for any savagery. But he was too inflexible to change with a changing Russia. He died out of date.

By then the Russian masses were vastly better educated and, therefore, better able to think, which meant more criticism and questioning of him and the party and its practices.

They no longer could be treated entirely as vassals of the state. Their approval to some degree had to be sought. This meant elimination of terror and talk of a fuller life.

In these terms, Khrushchev's downgrading of Stalin is understandable. But in doing this he shattered, and must have understood he would, the infallibility of the leadership.

The result: the monolith of communism itself was shattered. Party members everywhere became confused. Differences followed. Moscow could be disagreed with. Khrushchev confirmed this point over the weekend.

Thus, as the Soviet Union lost its absolute control over world communism, it was no longer the single-willed monster of Stalin. The chance is there for growth in new directions.

But a new Stalin, by some return to terror and through propaganda, might try to turn the Soviet Union back into a belligerent direction. This is the danger in Khrushchev's death.

What is still unknown about the Soviet Union is how much power the party chieftains have in choosing a successor and controlling policy.

Gunter Files for Senate Post

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—J. T. Gunter, 60, of Austin, filed Tuesday to run for state senator in the 19th District—the seat he lost in a court-contested race in 1960.

The incumbent is Sen. Charles George of Cabot, who won a write-in general election victory over Jerry Screeton of Hazen.

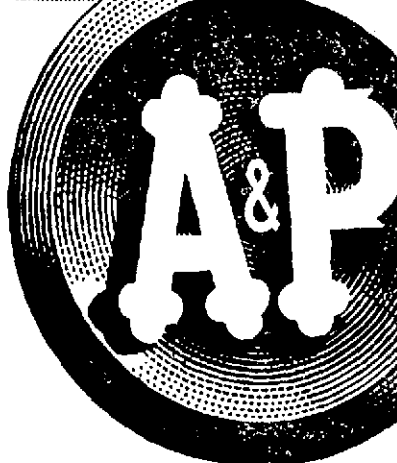

The courts said Screeton defeated Gunter in the Democratic primary.

The district includes White, Woodruff, Lonoke and Prairie counties.

Screeton sought a second term in 1960 in violation of a gentlemen's agreement under which Lonoke and Prairie counties alternated in providing a senator for the south half of the district, Gunter said.

He said he would discuss the 1960 campaign in his bid for election this year.

Torte In Three-Quarter Time

Ah, Vienna! The beauty... the gaiety... the waltzes... the coffee houses with their scores of confections, each richer and creamier than the next! If a generous amount of cream doesn't introduce the recipe, then a frothy dollop of whipped cream is likely to be its finale. Sour cream, too, is a favorite—a lively flavor note borrowed from the Slavs, but set to new uses by the Viennese with such imaginative dash that it's become a "native" specialty. This tall, split-layer cake, with all the airs and graces of Viennese torte, and the special lushness added by sour cream, offers one delectable example. Stir poppy seeds into the batter, add a harmonious filling, and accompany your torte with coffee, like the Viennese. But you can conduct your baking allegro—with the quick American ease of a cake mix inspired by Viennese sour cream recipes. It puts a new accent on elegant and effortless eating.

Vienna Poppy Seed Cake with Sour Cream Filling
1 package Vienna Style white cake mix 2 egg whites
1 1/2 cup poppy seeds 1 package fluffy white frosting mix
1 1/2 cups water

Combine poppy seeds with 1/4 cup of the water. Let stand for 30 minutes, don't drain. Combine cake mix, egg whites, poppy seeds, and remaining 1 cup water. Prepare and bake cake as directed on package in 8 or 9-inch round layer pans. Cool layers completely. Split layers horizontally before filling to make four layers.

Sour Cream Filling
1 package instant vanilla pudding and pie filling mix
2 egg yolks
1/2 cup milk

Blend together sour cream, egg yolks and milk. Stir in vanilla pudding and pie filling mix. Blend until smooth. Chill until ready to fill layers. (Chilling makes the filling a stiffer consistency.) Fill layers with sour cream filling and frost with fluffy white frosting prepared as directed on package. Refrigerate until ready to serve.

Cotton Was the Crop at the Turn of Century

THIS PICTURE WAS MADE OVER 50 YEARS AGO. Notice the barn at the left is the site of the present post-office which was built in 1912. The location is on cotton row at Second and Walnut. The Betts Staple Cotton Co. was where Ward's Drug Store is now. Back then the county raised an average of 30,000 bales per year compared to 6,000 now. The compress handled an average of 70,000 bales per year as compared to only a few thousand last year. Every wagon in the scene is loaded with cotton.

Alarms Seato Over Viet Nam Situation

By DON HUTH

MANILA (AP) — The South-east Asia Treaty Organization expressed "grave concern" today about continuing Communist aggression in South Viet Nam and agreed that members "should remain prepared if necessary to take further concrete steps" under the SEATO treaty.

The SEATO ministers agreed that the defeat of the Communist campaign "is essential not only to the security of the Republic of Viet Nam but to that of Southeast Asia."

"It will also be convincing proof that Communist expansion by such tactics will not be permitted."

France, which has proposed neutralization of Viet Nam and recognized Communist China, said that "under the present serious circumstances it was wise to abstain from any declaration."

The ministers set forth their views in a communique summing up their three-day 10th anniversary meeting.

They agreed that SEATO has had, and continues to have "a most important stabilizing influence in Southeast Asia."

The communique said the SEATO countries — The United States, Britain, France, Australia, New Zealand, Pakistan, Thailand and the Philippines — have continued over the past year "to enjoy peaceful progress and national security."

It added, however, that the Communist threat remains.

Life in Arkansas

By J. C. TILLMAN

Don Heuer of Batesville has sold lots of shoes, but never a three-year supply for one family—all at one time.

His problem was the hinterlands of Africa.

That's where Mr. and Mrs. George McKee Jr. were going as educational missionaries. And they wanted six pairs of shoes for each of their two young children.

Heuer had to estimate the rate of growth of each child's foot for the next three years, then hope they didn't outgrow his selections.

Janet Lee Murphy of Valley View has donated to the Arkansas State College Museum a rare and valuable collection of books and newspapers.

A ninth grader at Valley View High School, Janet gave the collection in the memory of her grandmother, Katie Robertson.

Among the 17 books and three newspapers in the gift collection are "Complete Arithmetic" published in 1870, "Practical Arithmetic" of 1857, "Life of Benjamin Franklin," 1846; "Alcohol, Its effects on Mind and

Ruth Blair, English teacher at Batesville High School, asked for essays and got this description from Gary Shelton of his grandfather:

"Gosh, what a bass!" These are the words frequently uttered by a very special person I know. This person is one of the best fishermen I have ever seen. He eats, sleeps, works and plays fishing the year-round.

He is never happier than he is when the rising sun is reflecting off his somewhat bald head on some bass - filled, cypress-lined lake. Through his faded blue eyes he searches with expert care for the most likely hiding place of the ravenous fish.

When he connects with a fish, his protruding stomach shakes like the traditional "bowl full of jelly." When a large fish escapes, which it seldom does, his comments are usually quite interesting.

This person has provided me with some of the most pleasurable and unforgettable Saturday afternoons of my life.

They weren't able to go but three Texarkana sisters had a special interest in the celebration of the 100th anniversary of the Civil War Battle of Mansfield in Louisiana recently.

They are Mrs. Mary Smith, Mrs. Ora Bolton and Mrs. Frank Hawkins, whose mother was 11 months old at the time the firing broke out in the spring of 1864.

In their fright and haste to flee when the battle erupted on Honeycutt Hill, where the family farm was, the grownups forgot about the baby, who was left in a barn.

Somebody hurried back and got the tot, who later, as Mrs. W. C. Witt, became the mother of the Texarkana women.

Oppose Health Regulations

WASHINGTON (AP)—Spokesmen for eight states, including Arkansas, said Tuesday they were opposed to extension of Labor Department health and safety regulations over radioactive materials.

The regulations would affect federal suppliers of materials in states which—like Arkansas—already have their own standards, which the Atomic Energy Commission has approved.

William A. Ledredge, an attorney representing the Arkansas Division of Radiological Health, said no evidence has been presented by the Labor Department showing that the safety programs are not adequate.

The spokesmen appeared at a Labor Department hearing. Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz will determine what to do about the protests.

Special Census for Russellville

RUSSELLVILLE, Ark. (AP)—The city council has authorized a special census of Russellville hoping it will raise the 1960 census population figure of 8,921 so the city can get more state tax turnback funds. The census is to begin April 27.

Military Workers Cut by 100,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate-House Subcommittee on Defense Procurement reported Monday that the Defense Department reduced military and civilian employment nearly 100,000 last year.

However, the payroll was increased $33.2 million by higher pay rates.

The subcommittee also reported that military buying increased $300 million. All the figures are for the government bookkeeping year ending last June 30.

Military procurement last year amounted to $28.1 billion, the report said. The biggest share—23.1 per cent—was spent in California.

The report said 27 other states each had less than one per cent.

The net value of military procurement actions in Arkansas for the fiscal year 1963 was $39,114,000. In fiscal 1962 the Arkansas figure was $34,798,000 and it was $46,586,000 in 1961.

Commerce Group to Intervene

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Commerce Commission will try to intervene against a Rock Island Railroad application to eliminate two runs through Arkansas, Chairman Kay Matthews said Tuesday.

The railroad has asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for authority to discontinue trains 23 and 24, which make a daily round trip between Amarillo, Tex., and Memphis.

Arkansas cities on the route are Forrest City, Brinkley, Hazen, Little Rock, Perry, Danville, Booneville, Mansfield and Hartford.

Matthews said the state commission's position will be that stopping the single-unit trains will deprive the cities on the route of needed passenger, freight and mail service.

The ICC is to hear Rock Island's application May 6 at Oklahoma City. Another hearing is set for May 11 in Little Rock.

Youth Dies on Track Field

EL DORADO, Ark. (AP) — Richard L. Blankenship Jr., 15, of El Dorado, collapsed and died in school here Tuesday.

Blankenship, an 8th grader, collapsed in a physical education class, which had exercised for five minutes and then assembled for roll call.

Coaches attempted artificial respiration. They said the youth complained of no ailment.

Death was caused by a narrowing of arteries leading from the heart, the coroner's office said. It said this could have been spurred by a congenital problem or by a childhood disease.

Leaves $1 Million for City Trees

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The City Council was stunned Monday night when told a spinster left Ann Arbor about $1 million to keep its trees in good shape.

Mayor Cecil Creal said Elizabeth Russell Dean had stipulated that the money was to go for "perpetual care and maintenance, replacement and planting of trees on city-owned property."

Miss Dean died April 7 at the age of 79.

Ann Arbor, 37 miles west of Detroit, has 67,000 residents and is the site of the University of Michigan.

Draft Law Comes Under House Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressman predicts the House will soon launch a major investigation of the draft law and feature heavyweight champion Cassius Clay as its star witness. The prediction came from

Rep. William G. Bray, R-Ind., who told a newsman:

"I think the Selective Service made a mistake in rejecting Cassius Clay. I'm not sure what the devil you could do with him. But I think the Army could have found a place for him."

The Army had said Clay was rejected after he failed to pass mental tests.

Bray, who is the ranking Republican member of the House Armed Services subcommittee on personnel, said he was not sure just which congressman would do the investigating.

He said he was hoping to persuade his subcommittee to do it. He said there also was a possibility that a joint committee, made up of members of the Armed Services and Education and Labor committees, would do the job.

In any case, Bray said, he was confident that some subcommittee or committee would open an investigation soon and call Clay as a witness.

Killed When Two Cars Collide

JOPLIN, Mo. (AP) — George Walter Nelson, 51, of Gravette, Ark., was killed Tuesday when his car collided with another 10 miles south of here on U.S. 71. Sidney G. Pottitzer, 56, of Joplin, driver of the other car, was not hurt.

Confirmation, however, of any committee plans. Rep. F. Edward Hebert, D-La., chairman of Bray's subcommittee, said "I don't know anything about it."

Plastic Mulch Prevents Weeds

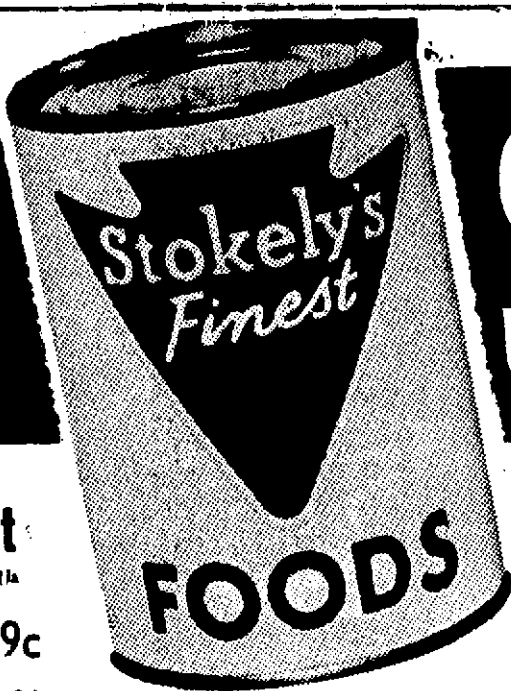

Home gardeners can improve the size and quality of their vegetables, fruit and flowers by using black polyethylene plastic film from a roll for mulching, a new method which has paid off for commercial growers. Black polyethylene cuts out all light, protects young trees, flower and fruit plants—as well as their roots—from cold, heat, drought or weeds. It completely eliminates hoeing. Less fertilizer is required, because the plastic minimizes loss of nutrients by rainfall.

Gering Plastics reports horticulturalists found that fruit and vegetables, mulched with the opaque film, are generally of better quality. Tomato plants are larger, firmer and have fewer defects. Strawberries come into production eight to 10 days earlier. There are fewer culls, and no soil rot, because the fruit is kept off the ground. Birds appear to do less damage where the plastic is used. A square of black polyethylene, 4 x 4 feet or larger, can be used around newly set fruit trees, rose bushes, or shrubs to control weeds and grass. This helps new plantings get off to a better start.

Soil should be prepared in the normal manner and fertilized before the polyethylene mulch is applied. Beds should be firm, smooth and slightly crowned so that the water will run off the plastic. Soil shoveled along the edges of the film will keep it anchored. Slits are made in the polyethylene with a razor blade to set in the plants. Black film absorbs heat, and plants must not remain under the hot wall material for any length of time. With very small seeded crops like beets, carrots or radishes, it is more practical to wait until the crop is up, then to place strips of the opaque plastic on both sides of the row.
